All New CASE IH Scout Featured at 2010 MATE Show

Billings, Mont. - Scout your fields, move livestock, check pivots, haul seed – no matter what's on your list, a Case IH Scout will fit into any operation. As a brand new product sold exclusively through Case IH dealers, the Scout will be the featured Grand Prize, sponsored by Torgerson's, at the 34th Annual Montana Agri-Trade Exposition (MATE Show) at MetraPark in Billings February 18-20, 2010.

The popularity of utility vehicles (UTV) has surged over the last five years. Their multifaceted use has made them the vehicle of choice for both farmers and ranchers. The Case IH Scout features 4WD, a CVT transmission, and a MacPherson Strut front suspension with independent rear suspension and is built rugged to handle utility jobs around the farm or ranch. The Scout lineup includes a two-passenger model with a 14-hp gas engine. The Scout XL with a bigger rear box is a two- or four-passenger model and is available with a 23-hp gas or 20-hp diesel engine. Top speed of all the vehicles is 25 mph. Prices for the Scout models range from $7,500 to $12,000.

A Case IH dealer, Torgerson's LLC, with their six statewide dealerships, is pleased to feature the Scout in their equipment line. As the sponsor of the 2010 MATE Show Grand Prize, they will be featured in booth 148 during the show with 25 booths showcasing some of the latest farming and ranching equipment and GPS technology. "We are very pleased to partner with the MATE Show and the Agricultural producers," says Clint Johannes, manager of Torgerson's in Billings. "We look forward to strengthening our relationships with established and new customers." Torgerson's is an authorized dealer of Case IH, FlexiCoil and New Holland agricultural equipment, and provides parts and service for all equipment they sell. Their six locations across Montana are: Ethridge, Great Falls, Lewistown, Havre, Denton, and Billings.
